News Review Libel Suit Trial Continues

The trial of the $2,000,000 libel suit filed by local developer Charles S. Bresler against the Greenbelt News Review is still in progress at the Prince Georges Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro. Three days are scheduled for the trial, which will be by jury.

New Postal Rates Go Into Effect Jan 7

Increased rates for all classes of mail except parcel post and international mail will go into effect January 7, Postmaster Emory A. Harman reminded postal customers today.

"Even with the new rates of six cents for first-class mail and 10 cents for air mail postal service is still a real bargain," Postmaster Harman declared. "For six cents you can send a letter to any of the 50 States, to any United States territory or possession, to Canada or Mexico, or to an American serviceman stationed anywhere in the world."

Postmaster Harman pointed out that the new rate for post cards will be five cents and for air mail cards eight cents.

The new rate of six cents per ounce for first-class mail applies up to 13 ounces and the new rate of 10 cents per ounce for air mail applies up to 7 ounces. Under the new rate structure all first-class mail over 13 ounces and all air mail over 7 ounces will be merged into a single category. These heavier pieces of first-class and air mail subject to the single rate schedule will be delivered by the fastest available means of transportation.

Another rate change that will affect the general public is the increase from four to six cents for the first two ounces of individual pieces of third-class mail. Unsealed greeting cards may be sent at this rate, Postmaster Harman said.

There will be no change in the charges for special delivery, special delivery, special handling, registered mail, certified mail, cash on delivery or insurance.

"We have an ample supply of one-cent stamps on hand," Postmaster Harman said, "for those people who have five-cent stamps and need one-cent stamps to make up the postage required under the new rates."

Higher rates also will go into effect January 7 for all categories of second-class mail, bulk-rate third-class mail, controlled circulation mail, and the educational materials category of fourth-class mail. Mailers using these classes who need information on the new rates should contact the local Post Office, Postmaster Harman said.

City Notes

The Public Works crew is now at its full authorized strength of 22 with the hiring last week of two new men. One of these will replace a man from the refuse collection detail who is being transferred to a job as custodian for the Municipal Building and the Youth Center. Until recently this work had been done under contract with a Washington firm.

The second new employee will work on the general crew, probably being assigned to a team of three men who will have responsibility for park maintenance.

The ducks at the lake park were not forgotten over the New Year's weekend. City employees saw that they were fed a ration of cracked corn.

WINTER SWIMMING

The second session of winter swimming will begin on January 21 in the indoor pool of Columbia Union College, Flower Avenue, Takoma Park (about a fifteen-minute trip from Greenbelt). Sessions meet Sunday from 6 to 7 p.m. Swim team coaches Dennis Adams and Duff Marquardt are the instructors.

Any child or teen-ager who has passed "Beginners" swimming may participate. Call either Mrs. J. Jones, 474-6001, or Duff Marquardt, 474-7848, for registration or for more information. New registrants, who call this week may swim January 14 for free.

New Snow Clearance Plan Goes Into Effect

A new plan for snow clearance, which was worked out only last week by the Greenbelt Public Works Dept., received its acid test during the snowfall on Sunday. The new procedure was deemed a success. With a new truck available this year for use with a snowplow attachment, the city now owns four heavy vehicles for snow-clearing operations. In addition, there are two small vehicles—a jeep and a Scout—which can be fitted with snow shovels.

The new plan divides the city into four sections, each the responsibility of one of the heavy vehicles. Parking lots and the shopping center area are left to the two light vehicles. The four major divisions are as follows: (1) Springhill Lake; (2) Lakewood and Boxwood subdivisions, with Research Rd. and Lastner Lane as boundaries from Ridge to Crescent; (3) University Square, Charlestowne Village, Lakeside Dr., and Block A (Ridge and Crescent from the top of the hill to Southway); (4) the remaining section of old Greenbelt from Southway to Research Rd.

Section 1 consists of 2 miles of pavement, sections 2 and 3 of approximately 3 and a half miles, and section 4 of 5 miles. Although section 4 is much longer, it is considered an easier push, according to Public Works Director Albert S. Attick, because there are no cul-de-sac streets in that section.

Sunday's snow-clearing operation began at 11 a.m., when a crew of eight men salted the streets. Shortly afterward they began clearing snow, a job which continued until midnight. At 1 a.m., after the snow stopped, they salted again, repeating the salting operation on Monday.

In addition to the regular snow removal job, the city crew also cleared snow from the parking lots at the National Guard Armory and at the American Legion, where New Year's Eve dances were being held.

Junior Highlights

by Patricia Rexon

Christmas is a time of giving, and the students at G.J.H.S. have been digging deep into their pockets in a school-wide effort to make the Student Council's Christmas Project a success. For the past two years Greenbelt Junior High has made sizeable contributions to Children's Hospital in Washington, D.C. This year was no exception; the drive, which began Dec. 1 and continued through the 22nd, proved to be exceedingly worthwhile. Surpassing our goal - to beat last year's contribution of $749 - the students raised over $1212. Strong competition between homeroom sections was largely responsible for their success. Scraping up $243.15, 9F claimed the lead, while 9G held a close second with $180. The final check was presented to Mr. Lawson at Children's Hospital on the 22nd.

Money was not the only thing Greenbelt students had to offer this Christmas. The band and chorus performed in a Christmas program for the P.T.A. and the school, featuring many favorite and traditional Christmas songs. Izzetta Favor and Cherle Perdue added to the program with their solos in "O Holy Night." Responsible for the success of the performance were Mr. Troy, Mrs. Nellenback, and Mrs. Stoy.

Public Hearings Scheduled on Metropolitan Rapid Transit

by David Stern

Residents of Prince Georges County will be able to express their views on plans for rapid rail transit in 3 public hearings scheduled to be held by the Washington Suburban Transit Commission at the end of this month. Similar hearings have been scheduled in Montgomery city, D. C., Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax city, and together they mark the end of one phase in the progress towards a rapid transit system and hopefully, the beginning of a new, more advanced one.

WALLACE COHEN SELECTED OYM

The Greenbelt Jaycees disclosed today that Wallace H. Cohen, 9148 Edmonston Ct., Springhill Lake, has been selected as Greenbelt's Outstanding Young Man for the year 1967.

The OYM contest this year netted four nominees, the largest number ever nominated for this competition. The other nominees were Hugh D. Jascourt, George G. Bruno, and Corporal Paul Reamy. All were highly deserving of their nomination and are to be commended for their outstanding work in the community. The Greenbelt Jaycees thank Kay-Dee Furniture, Joseph P. Vella, and Mrs. Martha Sutton for contributing so much to the success of this year's program through their nominations.

Cohen and his wife, Joan, will be two of the guests of honor at a banquet sponsored by the Maryland State Jaycees, to be held in Salisbury on January 26. At this time, the five outstanding young men in the State of Maryland will be selected for the national competition.

Local Sports Club Plans Award Smoker

The newly-organized Greenbelt Sports Club plans to honor many outstanding coaches and players at their first smoker set for Saturday, January 27, 7:30 p.m. at the Greenbelt American Legion Home. The public is invited.

Heading the list to be honored with trophies, will be Mr. John Merricks of Greenbelt, coach of the Crossland High School football team. John guided his team to another county championship with an 8-1 record. Last year John had an 8-0 log Dave Critzer and Tim Chaney, top Crossland Lineman and Backfield performer, respectively, will be feted along with their coach.

Others planning to attend are Head Coach Otto Graham of the Redskins plus an outstanding Redskin player.

In addition, Jim Lemon, former Greenbelter and new Senator baseball manager, has accepted an invitation and will be present.

The new Greenbelt Sports Club plans to schedule a smoker every month featuring well-known coaches, players, writers, commentators, etc.

Membership is open to any male (21 and older) who is interested in good socialability and fellowship through sports.

If interested in membership contact officers: Pres. Donald King: 345-8122, Sec. Emory Harmon: 474-5156, Treas. Leo Gerton: 345-9590.

Xmas Tree Burning

The annual collection of Christmas trees will be held on Saturday, January 6, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The actual tree burning ceremony will take place on Monday, January 8, at 7:30 p.m. behind the firehouse.

Following the burning on Monday night, a movie will be shown to all children who have brought a tree to a collection point and received a ticket. Refreshments will also be served.

Collection points are as follows: Westway and Lakeside (University Square Apartments), Springhill Lake Community House, in the rear of Brae Brooke Apartments, North End Elementary School, Center School, Greenbelt Fire House, Corner Lastner and Ivy Lane, Methodist Church.

Correction

In last week's GHI report, the estimated cost of the tree-planting project was not $300 per tree, but $300 in total.

The present phase began with a meeting held October 20, 1967 at the Statler Hilton hotel in Washington, in which representatives of the various area governments hammered out a mutually acceptable plan for rapid rail transit. The plan, as finally formulated calls for a 95.6 mile system, of which close to one half would be underground - mostly in D.C. - at a price now estimated at $2,366.6 million.

Plans for Greenbelt Area

Of the total mileage, 12.1 are to be in Prince Georges city, at a cost of $231.8 million (not including cars). Three lines are projected, and because of the cost involved, they will extend only as far as the Capital Beltway - at least, for the near future. Of these, one line will serve the southern part of the county in the Marlow Heights area, another will run almost due east to the newly-planned town of Largo, and a third one will pass through Chillum and Prince Georges Plaza to College Park, where it will enter the right-of-way of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and continue to Greenbelt Road.

It is this last route which is of most interest to Greenbelt residents; as transit needs increase, it is possible that this line will be extended along the B&O tracks as far as Laurel. Similar extension plans exist for the other two routes, envisioning the continuation of the middle line to Bowie-Belair and of the southern one to Brandywine.

There is also the possibility of another, fourth line along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks through Lanham, about 3 miles from Greenbelt. This point was raised in the October 20 meeting by representatives of Prince Georges city, including Carlton Sickles, who serves as chairman of WSTC. "We would like to hear some discussions on adding a shuttle or commuter line from Lanham to the basic system, via the Pennsylvania Railroad right-of-way," Sickles said.

Hearings and Briefings

The three public hearings are scheduled for (1) 8 p.m. Monday, January 29, at the Oxon Hill High School in Oxon Hill, (2) 8 p.m. Tuesday, January 30, at the County Courthouse in Upper Marlboro and (3) 2 p.m. Wednesday, January 31, at the County Service Building in Hyattsville. Persons wishing to testify at any of these hearings should submit their request in writing to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA), 1634 Eye str., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20006.

By writing to WMATA - the organization coordinating the transit plans of Washington and the adjoining counties - interested citizens can also obtain material describing the system, its cost analysis and various additional details; such information has already been mailed out in answer to about 9000 requests. Informative material can also be obtained from the offices of WSTC at 11315 Lockwood dr., Silver Spring.

Tonight, January 4, a public briefing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission (MNCPPC) building at 6600 Kenilworth ave., Riverdale, in which information on the proposed system will be presented by professional staff members and by consultants of WMATA. A panel, including County Commissioner Francis Aluisi, College Park Mayor William W. Gullett, David H. Gordon of Suburban Trust Co. and Rev. Perry A. Smith, III of the Community Action Committee will present questions to the experts.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Occupants of the new Defense Homes in the North End of town were without convenient bus service; they had to walk all the way to the Center to the bus depot. This also meant that many of them had a long way to carry their groceries. A request by town officials for bus service to the North End was turned down by the D. C. Capital Transit Company . . .

Northenders were also without telephones. However, in December the Berwyn telephone exchange announced that public phones would soon be installed in the North End. Also, throughout Greenbelt, potential new subscribers had to be able to prove need in order to get a private phone . . .

Over 50% of those registered in Greenbelt voted in the November 3 State and County elections. Incumbent Governor Herbert R. O'Connor was reelected by a majority of 6-1, statewide . . .

Rationing of coffee went into effect in December. Scrap metal and rubber were collected weekly for re-use in the war effort. Housewives saved used cooking grease and fats and turned them in for cash. Gasoline and tires for cars were rationed . . .

A Victory Rally held in December raised the sum of $1,100, which was to be used by the local Civil Defense organization to buy needed equipment and supplies . . .

The town was allotted a sharp reduction in fuel oil deliveries; the number of hours of heat supplied to the homes was cut down . . .

Three hundred forty-six Greenbelt families were interviewed by a graduate student who was writing a thesis for his doctor's degree in sociology on the "white collar worker." Greenbelters stacked up much better than the national average in education, reading habits and community spirit. Fifty-five percent of the adults belonged to one or more local organizations. There were 17 different informal clubs listed, mainly of a social nature. Over one third of family heads went to night school to study such subjects as accounting, auditing, statistics, law and engineering. They were omniverous readers of newspapers and magazines; some families subscribed to over a dozen publications . . .

Despite the war, everyone tried to have a good Christmas. As an article in the Cooperator said, "There ought to be one season when meetings don't meet, and families do."

KRASHOC-SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. William Krashoc of College Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith Ann, to Gary Burl Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Smith of Greenbelt. A mid-July wedding is being planned.

LWV to Study Equal Opportunities in P.G.

January and February unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County will concentrate upon equality of opportunity in education and employment within the County.

Mrs. Robert G. Dexter, chairman, said today her committee has discussed all programs, public and private, with appropriate administrative heads and has compiled comprehensive data on all existing programs. Membership, she continued, will be asked to determine in what ways these programs are meeting the needs of the poor and which programs deserve priority. Through membership consensus, she added, the League will be in a position to speak authoritatively on the various programs and their effectiveness within the Community.

League meetings are open to the public. Two day units and eight evening sessions are scheduled throughout the County. For further information call League office, 894-1465.

The Greenbeltville unit will meet Thursday, January 11, at 8 p.m. at the Greenbelt Firehouse.

Majorette Registration

Registration for boys and girls over 9 years of age has been reopened during the month of January for Greenbelt Majorettes. Any youngsters interested in joining may inquire at the Greenbelt Firehouse on Saturday mornings from 10 to 12 noon.

Instructor for the Majorettes is Mrs. Rita Mace, formerly a resident of California. While in Los Angeles, Mrs. Mace taught in the Los Angeles Recreation Centers as well as running a private studio. One of her former students is now a Drum Major for U.C.L.A.

Now a resident of Brae Brooke Apartments, Mrs. Mace helped set up the Brae Brooke Recreation Center and is currently giving private instruction.

Mrs. Mace is interested in obtaining more teen-agers in the Greenbelt Majorettes and also wishes to encourage boys to join. Her intent in the near future is to train a special group to be used for publicity and demonstrations. She is also anxious to lecture in the various schools.

Registration for youngsters under age 9 will be held in the fall.

PARKWAY IMPROVEMENTS TO BEGIN IN SPRING

Senator Daniel B. Brewster (D-Md) announced that construction will begin by early next spring on projects to improve the acceleration and deceleration lanes on the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

Greenbelt Grab-bag

by Punchin' Judy

Happy New Year, everybody! Since this is 1968, an Olympic year, we have decided to start out bright and early with a sports column.

People have varying tastes in sports. A friend tells us that his specialty is running a deficit. Politicians prefer tossing . . . tossing their hats in the ring, that is. Our specialty is jumping to conclusions. If there are any scouts around for the American team in that category, we feel that we can definitely prove that our talents in the field are of Olympic caliber.

Take the time our beagle started to expand through the middle. We said "oh, oh", took an inventory of neighborhood boy dogs, and carded her off to the veterinarian. And do you know what the vet said? He told us to feed her less; she was becoming obese.

We posted a real record in conclusion-jumping last summer, on a cruise ship. Entering the main dining room for our first meal, we were greeted by a magnificent plaque of the Great Seal of Maryland. Since the ship was not an American one and since no other countries or states were represented in such fashion, we assumed, with our usual modesty, that the seal had been placed especially in our honor. Of course, we really weren't too much surprised, since we felt certain that the fame of the Greenbelt News Review had spread to all parts of the world. Our ego was given another boost the next day when we were invited to the Captain's quarters for cocktails. Having removed our eyeglasses for glamour's sake, we squinted at a senior officer over our vodka sour. "We noticed the Seal of Maryland on the bulkhead downstairs", we cooed nautically.

"Oh yes," answered the mariner. "Gov. Tawes presented that to us the first time we docked in Baltimore because he liked the appearance of the ship."

Well, we were at sea on that one, but some of our better efforts have had other settings. Take the first snowstorm of this winter season. Looking out of the window of our snug living room, we were full of self-congratulations at having a full refrigerator and nothing to worry about. And the phone rang. If this were a soap opera, that would be the signal for the beginning of a calamity. But we felt no foreboding, until the voice on the phone identified itself as a member of the staff of our son's school. "I must speak to your husband immediately," he stated.

"He's on his way to work, but I'll be glad to give him a message."

"No, it is imperative that I speak to him. Where can I reach him?"

By this time anxiety was rearing its sneaky head. What could have happened to the boy? If it had been anything benign like a ruptured appendix or a broken leg surely the man would have told us. This obviously was something so terrible

"The Art of Cartooning"

Isadore Parker - cartoonist for the Washington Post, official of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and past editor of the Greenbelt News Review - will be the guest speaker at the monthly Bagel and Lox breakfast of the Mens Club of the Jewish Community Center, to be held 10 a.m. Sunday, January 7, at the Greenbelt firehouse. His subject will be "The Art of Cartooning", and he will demonstrate as well as describe it. Admission is free to members and nonmembers.

BLOODMOBILE

The Prince Georges County Blood Mobile will be at the Springhill Lake Community House on Monday, January 8, from 3 p.m. to 7:45 p.m. A person in good health, weighing at least 110 pounds and between the ages of 21 and 59 may donate blood. Those 18 to 21 will be accepted if they have written permission from parent or legal guardian. A doctor is always present when blood is being taken from donors.

One donation every 6 months provides full coverage for the donor and his family.

he didn't want to break it to the mother first.

"Please have your husband call me as soon as you can reach him."

"But there's a bad snowstorm and I don't know when I can get in touch with him. Can't you tell me what's wrong?"

"I'm sorry, I must speak to him."

How we worried! Could the child have been run over by a snowplow? Or strangled by his teacher? Or vice versa? There was no catastrophe that didn't cross our consciousness. Maybe he was trampled by a herd of wild elephants. Maybe he trampled a herd of elephants. We tried to be calm and sensible. After all we doubted if there had been any recent reports of wild elephants in these parts. Still . . . By this time our nails were chewed down to the second knuckle. When finally we reached father and he called the school, anticlimax came quickly. It all boiled down to a simple matter of bus transportation. We never found out why the man thought he ought to talk only to our husband. But at least we had something to show for it: three grey hairs and a new record for conclusion-jumping.

Another kind of jumping we are awfully good at is jumping from subject to subject, so will the class please follow while we take up the subject of new year's resolutions. We didn't make any, but we'll be glad to share those of our fifth grader.

- #1. Try to lose some weight.
- #2. Try to observe resolution #1.
- #3. Go to bed at a suitable time.
- #4. Don't be impossible.
- #5. Don't throw a temper tantrum unless absolutely necessary.

Happy New Year!

The Police Blotter

A burglary at Lakeside North netted a portable TV set and some coins.

A Juvenile has been charged with breaking and entering and vandalism at the GHI warehouse. There will be a hearing in Juvenile Court.

A D. C. woman was arrested for forgery at S. Klein's when she signed a name taken from a stolen credit card.

A juvenile, apprehended with an 18-year-old in a car driven without the owner's permission, was found to have vandalized another car. Police are investigating the presence of rifles found in the car in which the boys were riding.

Police are looking for an automobile reported stolen from Klein's west parking lot. A car stolen from Crescent Rd. has been recovered.

A man charged with assault and battery, and child molesting, is to be tried this week.

New Year's eve and day brought to police several cases of unwanted guests and fights. All complaints were settled uneventfully. One Greenbelt resident lodged a complaint that a guest at her party had molested her cat and caused him to be lost.

A GUIDE TO GREENBELT

The above map, depicting the central part of Greenbelt, identifies some of the key areas in the city. Since the time the map was prepared, several new streets have been added in Boxwood Village and in University Square - including the extension of Lakeside Dr. and Westway. Nevertheless, newcomers to Greenbelt will find it useful in familiarizing themselves with their city.

Here are some of the outstanding features:

Parkland is shown shaded, with tree-marks, and includes the central park area surrounding Greenbelt Lake. In March, 1967, parcels

9, 10, 11 and 12 (marked by these numbers on the map) were purchased by the city as additional parkland following an overwhelming vote in a 1965 referendum in favor of their acquisition. From there a strip of parkland, including the youth center and the Braden Ballfield, extends towards the center of town.

Another park area, triangular in shape and located near the parkway exit, is the location of the McDonald Ballfield (both ballfields are named after former city managers). At the bottom left of the map is a section of the 1100-acre Greenbelt Park administered by the Department of the Interior and mostly still undeveloped.

Greenbelt Homes Incorporated (GHI) covers most of the shaded area around the center of the city.

Parcel 14 is the so-called "Golden

Triangle", containing 57 acres and strategically located between the Beltway, Greenbelt Rd. and Kenilworth Avenue. After a long contest which was carried all the way to the Maryland Court of Appeals, commercial zoning was approved for this land by the court's decision of October 18, 1967.

Parcel 2 between GHI and the Baltimore parkway is the choice of the County School Board for a proposed 3-school complex, including elementary, junior high and high schools. Originally plans called for the high school to be located on parcel 15 (not numbered, but delineated, between the letter "G" of "Greenbelt" and the Beltway), and the decision of the board to relocate it on parcel 2 has caused bitter controversy and a lawsuit before the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Greenbelt's proposed Circumferential Highway is not marked, and its plans, too, are not completely firm. It will presumably run along the northern limit of the city - near parcel 5, possibly on land now belonging to the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, located just beyond city limits - cut through parcel 1 in a wide arc and, most likely, cross over the Baltimore parkway into the Smith and Ewing tract, ending on Glenn Dale Rd.
